

SOCIETY AND HOUSE-WOMEN AND WIVES

Break Down in Summer—Pe-ru-na Acts as a Tonic to the Deranged Nervous System.

MISS ESTHER G. LOWE, a prominent young society lady of Washington, Ga., writes: "I took Peruna in early spring, receiving glorious benefits from same. Before taking Peruna I suffered with a dull headache. A friend of mine told me of Peruna. I have taken only your medicine. They are wonderful indeed. We have a very large house and entertain a great number of our friends. I advise all my suffering friends to give Peruna a fair trial."—Esther G. Lowe.

MISS ESTHER G. LOWE, a prominent young society lady of Washington, Ga., writes: "I took Peruna in early spring, receiving glorious benefits from same. Before taking Peruna I suffered with a dull headache. A friend of mine told me of Peruna. I have taken only your medicine. They are wonderful indeed. We have a very large house and entertain a great number of our friends. I advise all my suffering friends to give Peruna a fair trial."—Esther G. Lowe.

Primeval Methodist church by the Rev. Wilson Bentley. Morning service at 10:30, subject, "How to Know a True Christian." Evening service at 7 o'clock, subject, "The Point of View of Human Life." Sunday school at 2 o'clock. All are invited.

CLARK'S SUMMIT. Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Whyte and son, Charles, of Philadelphia, are visiting Mrs. Whyte's mother, Mrs. S. P. Walker.

MOSCOW. Mrs. Ira Biessecker entertained the following guests at tea yesterday afternoon: Mrs. Watkins, Mrs. M. A. Lyman, Miss Sue Pyle, Mrs. George Shaw, Mrs. Biessecker, Emily Biessecker, James Shaw and George Watkins.

PRICEBURG. Mrs. White and Mrs. Mitchell, of Olyphant, were the guests of Mrs. John Lewis, of Main street, on Wednesday last.

GOOD POPULAR SONGS SCARCE. Great Hits Few Nowadays. Although Music Publishers Are Hurdling. From the Cleveland Plain Dealer.

TOOK EXCEPTION. Dunes—I went to Heston's restaurant yesterday in a shirt and they refused to serve me. Bertha—Is that so? Why I understood they served lobsters in every style—Brooklyn Eagle.

10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Morning subject, "The Holy Ghost in the Acts of the Apostles;" evening subject, "Raising a Prophet from a Pit." All are welcome. James W. Smith fished at Lake Lodore yesterday.

JERMYN AND MAYFIELD. The Baptist Sunday school will hold its annual picnic next Wednesday at Nay Aug park. Special cars have been ordered, one of which will leave the company store, at Mayfield, at 7:45 a. m.

On August 16. The next regular meeting of the Women's Christian Temperance union will be held August 16, which time the annual election of officers will take place. All members will please plan to attend, if possible.

Meetings of Sunday. Germania Singing society, Knights of Father Mathew, E. Hendricks lodge No. 94, R. R. T., Central Labor union, Cigarmakers' union No. 430, and S. H. Drotter lodge, No. 106, B. of L. E.

Meetings Tonight. Division No. 13, Ancient Order of Hibernians, Court Golden Eagle, No. 14, P. A. D. D., and the school board.

THE PASSING THROG. Joseph Watkins left Thursday to resume his work at Jeannetteville.

Rev. William Hollenbeck will preach at the Simpson mission on Sunday at 4 p. m.

C. H. Smith, proprietor of the Poyntelle house, Lake Poyntelle, was in town yesterday.

Mrs. George Miller, of New York city, formerly Miss Ella Hubbard, is visiting in town.

Mrs. James Gallagher and daughter, Nellie, left Thursday for a visit with relatives in Oil City.

Miss Kathleen Caviston, of Pen Yan, N. Y., is the guest of Miss Agnes Connor on Dundaff street.

Miss Mary Coughlin, of Dundaff street, has gone to Rockland, Maine, where she will spend the summer.

Superintendent J. B. Nicholson, of the Erie railway company, will spend next week at the Pan-American exposition.

Mrs. Cecilia Gallagher and daughter, Miss Nellie, of Salem avenue, left yesterday for Oil City, where they will attend the Pan-American exposition.

Clementine and Joseph Gallagher returned home to Scranton yesterday, after a visit with their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. P. Early, on Seventh avenue.

Mrs. A. L. Vandorfer has returned to her home, on Wayne street, after spending six weeks at the bedside of her brother at Dimmock corner. He has been afflicted with a severe attack of typhoid fever.

Mrs. Margaret Carroll left yesterday for Pittston, where she will visit for a few days, after which she will go to Detroit, Mich., where she will represent the local branch of the Ladies' Catholic Benevolent association at the annual convention.

Douglas B. A. Kelly and daughter, Miss Mary, left yesterday for the Pan-American exposition and a trip over the lakes. Mr. Kelly, while away, will attend the session at Buffalo of the trustees of the Methodist Episcopal benevolent association, of whom he is one.

OLYPHANT. The assault and battery case, in which Dr. J. J. Matthias was prosecutor and William Davis, the defendant, was tried before Justice of the Peace on Thursday evening.

Rev. Peter Roberts, Ph. D., will conduct the services in the Congregational church tomorrow morning and evening.

The borough school board, consisting of Directors J. W. Reese, Tallie W. Jones, W. B. Owens, Joseph Davis, E. G. Watkins, J. B. Powell, James Price, James Evans, George Douce and T. R. Davis, made their annual inspection of the school buildings yesterday.

Services will be held at the usual time in the Presbyterian church tomorrow morning and evening. Rev. P. H. Hammond, pastor.

Mrs. C. N. Patterson and daughter have returned to New York after a visit with relatives in town.

Mrs. William Blake, of Archbald, spent yesterday at the residence of W. J. Sweeney, on Jackson street.

Miss Alice Flynn, of Pittston, who has been visiting here, returned home yesterday.

Misses Mame Carroll, of Plymouth, and Sadie Timlin, of Jermyn, were the guests of Miss Mary Rogan, of Dunmore street, yesterday.

Miss Nellie McAndrew is visiting relatives at Hyde Park, Pa.

Miss Nellie Ryan is spending a few weeks at Hancock, N. Y.

Misses Anne and Lucy Farrell and Lizzie McDonough, of Carbondale, were visitors in town Thursday evening.

PECKVILLE. After a couple of nights in darkness, Archbald and Jessup are again illuminated by electric lights.

Carbondale Department. Office: BURKE BUILDING. Phone: NEW, 286 OLD, 0423.

RUN OVER BY CARS.

Disastrous Attempt of Fourteen-Year-Old Ernest Sampson to Jump on an Ontario and Western Railroad Train—Both Legs Cut Off Below the Knees—The Boy May Die.

Ernest Sampson, fourteen-year-old son of Elwyn Sampson, and who lived with his step-father, Andrew Stockwell, on Cherry avenue, just below Belmont street, was run over and seriously injured by an Ontario and Western coal train about 1.30 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

Both legs were crushed beneath the wheels and were all but severed. When the boy was taken to Emergency hospital, the surgeons gravely shook their heads and seemed apprehensive of his chances of surviving the terrible shock he received.

Ernest is with his step-father, Stockwell, on Cherry avenue, his father and mother having been separated, the latter re-marrying. Since the summer vacation opened, Sampson, together with a number of lads from the neighborhood of his home, have made it a practice to jump on Ontario and Western coal trains and ride away up into New York state.

On Tuesday of this week, he made such a trip, going beyond Sidney, N. Y., and did not return until yesterday forenoon. A few hours after reaching this city, Sampson made up his mind to take another trip, and readily joined a party of a half-dozen of his companions, who were eager for the experience and who were going to the beach.

The party, which consisted of about a dozen boys, was on the train when it was about to start. The boys were lined up for the jump, and all of them were successful but Sampson. He failed to get a footing, and fell going under and a number of the cars passing over his lower limbs. The rest of the crowd must not have known of their comrade's fate, for they continued on the train. The trainmen were also probably ignorant of what happened.

There is no doubt that the boy who was walking along the tracks, and workmen in the Delaware and Hudson shops, witnessed Sampson's going under the wheels, and hastened to his aid. He was placed on a stretcher and later taken in the ambulance to Emergency hospital.

About two weeks ago Sampson and three other boys were taken before Alderman Delavan by Constable Gilby for riding on a street car on the tracks, and were severely reprimanded by the alderman.

Sampson's mother has not seen him since he went away Tuesday on his New York state trip, for she was from home yesterday, when he came back.

FUNERAL OF J. J. MONAHAN. Laid at Rest in the St. Rose of Lima Cemetery.

The late John J. Monahan was laid at rest in St. Rose of Lima cemetery amid impressive ceremonies yesterday forenoon.

At 9:45 the procession moved from the Harrison house, at which there was a great outpouring of the relatives and friends of the deceased from the neighboring towns. Beginning at 10 o'clock a high mass of requiem was sung in St. Rose church by Rev. Walter Gorman, who also delivered the eulogy, during which he spoke bitterly of Mr. Monahan's career.

The pall bearers were John J. Magharran, Scranton; John E. Brown, Hon. J. J. O'Neill, Bryan Burke, T. J. Kelly, J. P. Kelly, J. P. Collins, J. F. Boylan and Dr. W. H. McGraw.

Among those present from out of town were: John F. Nalbin, John F. Gallagher, M. J. Kelly, M. P. Flynn, J. O'Boyle, John J. Magharran, Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Kelly, Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Missett, Mr. and Mrs. John E. Missett, Mrs. Ward, James Wood, P. F. Carden, Miss Marie Missett, Mrs. Sarah Missett, Thomas Walsh, Mrs. Daniel Campbell, Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Melvin, of Scranton; Richard J. Walsh and Mrs. Margaret Linnon, of Philadelphia; Michael Roche and family, Arthur Missett, John Grant and wife, of Jersey; Frank Lavin, Miss Blanche Lavin, Joseph Fitzpatrick, Will Callahan, of Pittston; Mr. and Mrs. Melbaum and daughter, Mrs. Buckley and daughter, of Hyde Park, and Mrs. Mahon, of Olyphant.

Rev. Dr. Whalen's Work. Wednesday, July 10, the dedicatory services were held in Blooming Grove, Wayne county, in which the new edifice of the First Baptist church was dedicated, free from all incumbrances. This was possible only after Rev. H. J. Whalen had secured the necessary money to liquidate all obligations. The people responded generously, and a number of churches was represented. The church is valued at about $2,500 and is a credit to the people.

Special Service Tomorrow. The members of the Daughters of Naomi, Lackawanna assembly, No. 11, of this city, will attend divine service in a body next Sunday evening at the Berean Baptist church, on which occasion a special service will be preached by Rev. H. J. Whalen. An invitation has been extended also to the lodges of the Knights of the Mystic Chain of Carbondale and Jermyn to join the ladies in the service.

Coming Nuptials. On Wednesday next, in St. John's church, Hon. H. J. Whalen, pastor, will marry George W. Norris, E. S. Clark, Charles H. Horton, J. W. Dimock, G. M. Patterson, John B. Shannon, Hon. John F. Reynolds, William Shannon, Robert Kinback, Hon. S. S. Jones, D. W. Humphrey, H. D. Carey, H. G. Likely, George Alvord, C. H. Munro, P. C. Severance, H. C. Wheeler, G. Puglione, Frank Hubbard, J. J. Reigeluth, Elsie Severance, J. C. Decker, E. E. Finn, J. W. Mohr, Matthew L. Murphy, Norman Gelder, Martin O'Malley, T. H. Phinney, John R. Jones, Frank E. Burr and J. Russell Jones.

No Picnics Allowed. Notices have been posted in the yarding grounds of Superintendent Peterson, of the Hillside company, forbidding the use of the grounds. There are several picnics scheduled for that place, the advertising matter being already printed, and it is not known what the projectors will do.

Slaves' Annual Retreat. The annual retreat of the Sisters of the Immaculate Heart of Mary of the Diocese of Scranton, is in progress at St. Rose convent in this city. Father Hogan, of the Redemptorist order, is in charge and will deliver daily instructions. The retreat will continue until July 27, when it will conclude with a reception of novices and a profession.

On August 16. The next regular meeting of the Women's Christian Temperance union will be held August 16, which time the annual election of officers will take place. All members will please plan to attend, if possible.

Meetings of Sunday. Germania Singing society, Knights of Father Mathew, E. Hendricks lodge No. 94, R. R. T., Central Labor union, Cigarmakers' union No. 430, and S. H. Drotter lodge, No. 106, B. of L. E.

Meetings Tonight. Division No. 13, Ancient Order of Hibernians, Court Golden Eagle, No. 14, P. A. D. D., and the school board.

THE PASSING THROG. Joseph Watkins left Thursday to resume his work at Jeannetteville.

Rev. William Hollenbeck will preach at the Simpson mission on Sunday at 4 p. m.

C. H. Smith, proprietor of the Poyntelle house, Lake Poyntelle, was in town yesterday.

Mrs. George Miller, of New York city, formerly Miss Ella Hubbard, is visiting in town.

Mrs. James Gallagher and daughter, Nellie, left Thursday for a visit with relatives in Oil City.

Miss Kathleen Caviston, of Pen Yan, N. Y., is the guest of Miss Agnes Connor on Dundaff street.

THE PEOPLE'S EXCHANGE

A POPULAR CLEARING HOUSE for the Rent, Real Estate or Other Property to Sell or Exchange, or Who Want Situations or Help—The People's Exchange, 100 North Third Street, Scranton, Pa.

A FELICITIOUS EVENT AT CRYSTAL LAKE

A Half Hundred Guests Partake of the Warm-Hearted Hospitality of George S. Kimball, Whose Broad Philanthropic Spirit Has Shown Its Influence in Many Ways in This Community—The Musical and Banquet at Fern Hall—The Guests.

On Thursday night, in the dining room at Fern Hall, a half hundred men gathered about the table as the guests of George S. Kimball, of this city, to partake of the warm-hearted hospitality of this citizen, whose broad and philanthropic spirit has manifested its benevolent and uplifting influence in this community in numerous ways since his residence here.

The banquet was fraught with many delightful incidents. It was certainly a feast of good things, but the guests at the banquet were not the only ones who participated in the evening's entertainment. Mr. Kimball arranged for a musical, which was conducted in the hotel parlor, Fern Hall, to which the hotel guests and the cottagers at the lake were heartily welcomed.

This part of the evening's programme was of a high order. The numbers were: "Trio," O. Hean, M. O. Hean, Mrs. Hadenock, Mrs. F. E. Burr, Mr. Hockenberry; tenor solo, "The Sallor's Grave," (Arthur Sullivan), W. D. Evans; duet, "When Life Is Brightest," (Pinsuti), Mrs. Hadenock, Mrs. Burr; soprano solo, selected, Miss Sharpliss; piano solo, selected, Eudora Rubinstein; Mr. Russell; duet, "Merry Birds of Spring," G. A. White, Mrs. Hadenock, Mr. Evans; bass solo, "Song of Hydras, the Cretan," (Elliot), Mr. Hockenberry; soprano solo, selected, Mrs. Hadenock; quartet, "Good Night, Good Night," (Pinsuti), Mrs. Hadenock, Mrs. Burr, Mr. Evans, Mr. Hockenberry.

Of these, the etude by Rubinstein, by Mr. Russell, of the Syracuse university, found highest favor, his effort being pronounced as brilliant by the appreciative listeners. There were encore also, to the numbers by Mr. Evans and Mr. Hockenberry. The accompanist was John Evans, who is a pupil at the Boston Conservatory of Music.

The banquet followed in the dining hall. The guests were the agents of the Chase & Sanborn company in this city, and the Carbondale members of the Lackawanna bar.

When the "Key West" was kindled and the time for the after-dinner talking arrived, Mr. Kimball introduced Hon. S. S. Jones as toastmaster, in place of Hon. J. J. O'Neill, who could not attend. Mr. Jones was an exemplary presiding officer. His happy and his flashes of wit and humor gave added spirit to the occasion.

Mr. Jones was also among the toast responses. His subject was "Modern Philanthropy," to which he addressed himself with vigor and animation. He talked in a frank and quite an after-dinner manner, without any furbelows or trimmings.

First, it is an important element in the composition of man. It has its origin in the great heart of the world man. It springs from a love of mankind and is forced to fruition by a desire to do good to our fellow-man. The philanthropist is not a man who makes the man who realizes that he is his brother's keeper; that he has no right to live for himself alone; that it is part of his mission to help his fellow man, as he has opportunity, those who are in need. Included in this must be a determination to look for opportunities. Philanthropy includes benevolence, kindness of nature and kindly disposition.

Of the three virtues quoted in Holy Writ, Faith, Hope and Charity, the last named of these is only another name for philanthropy. It is greatest because it includes both of the highest virtues, and is powerful because it combines spirit and action. Men with the true philanthropic spirit gladly provide practical help, and open a way to higher and a better life for those who would otherwise drift into the maelstrom of crime, poverty and helplessness. It is this spirit of philanthropy that makes the world better, that provides; and that in a generous way makes homes for the friendless, hospitable to the homeless, that has worked reforms in the penal institutions, in the prisons of our land, and provides the means for re-education of the convict.

Philanthropy builds churches, schools of learning, art galleries and endows institutions whose doors are ever open to the earnest fellow who is thirsting for knowledge and for information along any line.

As a rule, we associate the millionaire with the possession of unlimited means, the man who controls untold wealth with the possibilities for philanthropic spirit and power of the highest order. It does not seem possible to separate these two conditions, and yet, he is known to all men that he who was the true exponent of the highest virtue, philanthropy was a homeless wanderer, the man of men who knew not where to lay his head, but who was true to the principles, the leader in the greatest departure from old-time methods of teaching. He held up in the bright light of his life the right to the individuals. He taught men that in the administration of justice the claims of the man on trial should receive full consideration.

Know, then, that the work of the philanthropist is not confined to the distribution of alms, but that he who lives to exert an influence for right, who strives earnestly to make the world better for his having lived in it is practically quite as much a philanthropist as the man who scatters millions, and bids the people get their share of it, get what they can of it, and if they get as much as they want of it, let them rejoice, because they did not get less of it. This had among millionaires, becoming their own executors, is only a fact. It brings to the surface the very best evidence of their distrust and selfishness. Filled with the idea that they are the only individuals capable of doing the great amount of good with what they have accumulated.

Of course, these men deserve a great deal of credit for what they are doing and the world gives them a full meed of praise, after the world's fashion, but I am not going to sit in judgment on them, do not know what it is to feel like a millionaire, but I have heard millionaires say some things that I would not care to be compelled to say, but of course I will never be compelled to indulge in any millionaire talk. Mr. Carnegie is doing a great work for humanity. It is doing a "wrong" thing, however. His princely gifts to some sections in Scotland have been severely criticized, and in this country, where conditions strikes most of the people as a popular scheme, some paragraph writer has written a number of articles in the prospective county seat of an Arizona shire, has accepted the Carnegie offer, although there are only three buildings in that town and two of these, I do not believe the story. I think that newspaper scribe is a liar. This man, Rogers, made all of his gifts, and he is not a teacher, but a world talking about his liberal gifts to art. It transpires that much of this was the creation of a mind that was like the Philadelphian who endowed with two millions of dollars an institution for the care of the blind above that amount to charity.

Now, take this man, Mr. Spring, of the McCormack Reaper company, who died in Chicago on Tuesday. He made a fortune of many years ago that when a man had accumulated $200,000 it was all he needed, and that, so far as he was concerned, he would give all that he received above that amount to charity. His business prospered; his income increased, but he kept his pledge to do his duty to the letter. The world sorely heard of him. The people and institutions that were recipients of his bounty were unknown. He did not work the newspaper racket. He was not that kind of a giver, but he was the philanthropist, and one of the best of the modern kind.

There is no denying the fact that there is much of the old in much of the so-called modern philanthropy, the kind that gives to the princely donor a newspaper notoriety and that excites the wonder of the people for a brief period, but the philanthropist whose noble deeds never reach the newspaper columns, who live and die in comparative obscurity, outnumber by far the men who become famous in cold type eulogy. For instance: There was Brown; that is, plain John Brown. With his wrinkled face, that contained a world of wisdom, and a heart of gold, and a soul of steel, that contained a world of grace. He never married, he grubbed on his own patch, he supported his parents until they died, and then he lived "old back."

The neighbors had some suspicions they could not prove. For years had an unknown man distributed gifts to the poor in town. On a certain day he was seen to take a horse and wagon to the farm. If the worthy old widow was in need of wood, some night would that ood be left. In the barns of those who, by mishap, the drought befell.

In summing up, kind friends, when we drop this shell just over there, Good thoughts, good hearts will tell. Of moulding souls serene and fair, And among the angels with harp and lyre, It's likely we'll see Philanthropist Brown.

Attorney Charles H. Horton was privileged by the host to talk on any subject he pleased, which he proceeded to do by relating several humorous anecdotes and a number of interesting reminiscences, which he did to the entertainment and enjoyment of his hearers.

Ex-District Attorney John R. Jones was the next speaker. His subject was "The Pleasure of the Pleasant Duty of forming the banquetters as to the sort of neighbors he had at Crystal Lake. After telling how pleasant he found life at the lake, whose crystal waters gave it the name it bears, and how he had enjoyed his stay at the lake, he gave the answer that the Lancaster county legislator gave in objecting to the bill providing for the substitution of associate judges by wooden men, when he said there were no wooden men in Lancaster county, just as good as the wooden men. The people at the lake were likewise just as good as any others. Mr. Jones also paid eloquent tribute to the beauties of Crystal Lake.

Attorney Homer D. Carey made a brief but interesting response and was followed by Hon. John F. Reynolds, who gave a brilliant talk on the subject assigned him, "Woman." In Mr. Reynolds' talk he paid high tribute to woman, at the same time, however, pointed out her inconsistencies and unless it be ungalant to say it, her foibles.

John W. Dimock made a happy response, also Dr. H. C. Wheeler, who spoke glowingly of Mr. Kimball's purpose and efforts, also testifying to the helpful influence which the gathering had on him, personally.

Before the guests dispersed after the delightful evening, Toastmaster Jones called on Mr. Kimball. Mr. Kimball always happy in his remarks, was particularly so on this occasion, and the sentiments he expressed as to the uplifting influences of gatherings of his character were heartily shared by his hearers.

There was a vote of thanks to the host concluded the evening, which will ever be a pleasant memory to the guests who shared in its enjoyment.

The guests were: W. D. Evans, John B. Evans, Prof. A. Thomas, M. M. Norris, George W. Norris, E. S. Clark, Charles H. Horton, J. W. Dimock, G. M. Patterson, John B. Shannon, Hon. John F. Reynolds, William Shannon, Robert Kinback, Hon. S. S. Jones, D. W. Humphrey, H. D. Carey, H. G. Likely, George Alvord, C. H. Munro, P. C. Severance, H. C. Wheeler, G. Puglione, Frank Hubbard, J. J. Reigeluth, Elsie Severance, J. C. Decker, E. E. Finn, J. W. Mohr, Matthew L. Murphy, Norman Gelder, Martin O'Malley, T. H. Phinney, John R. Jones, Frank E. Burr and J. Russell Jones.

R. H. Strickland, who was the predecessor of Superintendent E. C. Guerin, of the Carbondale Gas company, was in town yesterday.

Use Allan's Foot-Eas in Your Gloves. A lady writes: "I shake Allan's Foot-Eas into my gloves, and it keeps my hands from getting raw by shaking perspiration. It is a most delicate foot powder. We invite the attention of physicians and nurses to the fact that Allan's Foot-Eas, Dr. W. C. Abbot, proprietor of the Chicago Clinic, says: 'It is the best preparation for the feet of the sick and the aged.' All drug and shoe stores sell it. Sample sent FREE. Address: Allan S. Dimsted, Box 2, N. Y.